BILL PERMITS

Measure Regulating Overtime

FIXES LIMITATIONS

Ten Hours a Day, 54 a Week
Limit; Extra Pay Made
Mandatory

Senator Eastgate of Grand Forks, has introduced a measure into the senate which would permit women to work overtime under certain limitations. Under the present law women may not be permitted to work over eight hours a day no matter what the work is. Hotel owners, hospitals and telephone companies have entered many complaints against this iron-clad provision.

Senator Eastgate would have the minimum wage apply to the limitations and they would thus receive pay for overtime. Under his law they must not be required to work more than eight and one-half hours a day, more than six days a week or over 48 hours in one week.

But he would permit them to work seven days a week and not over 54 hours and not exceeding ten hours a day in hotels and restaurants and not exceeding six days and 54 hours a week nor ten hours in any one day in other occupations named, as telephone, telegraph, mercantile and laundries.

It also provides that the act will not apply to telephone exchanges in towns of less than 5,000 population.

Bowman Back.
Senator Bowman of LaMoure, who has been sick, was back behind his desk yesterday.

Deer hunters found the senate a stone wall yesterday afternoon.

Closed Season Wins.
An amendment to the closed season bill introduced by Senators Fraser and Ward, which would have given the hunters three days a year, Nov. 10, 11 and 12, in which they might trap the light-colored animals was voted down and the original bill passed.

Under a concurrent resolution carrying a constitutional amendment, which passed the senate by a vote of 25 to 23 and which was not cast on party lines, electors leaving the county or the state may not vote in their former voting places until they have lived a sufficient time where they are to establish their right to vote at their new home. Under the present law a day's residence out of the county or the state, if it is the intention of the elector to establish his home at his new place of residence he cannot vote.

WEHE CASE IS IN HIGH COURT

The case of L. J. Wehe, former commissioner of the workmen's compensation bureau, is before the supreme court today.

The case was argued at length before the supreme court on appeals from district court, where the case was decided against Governor Frazier, the defendant, and it was held that Wehe was restored to his office, from which he had been removed by the Governor.

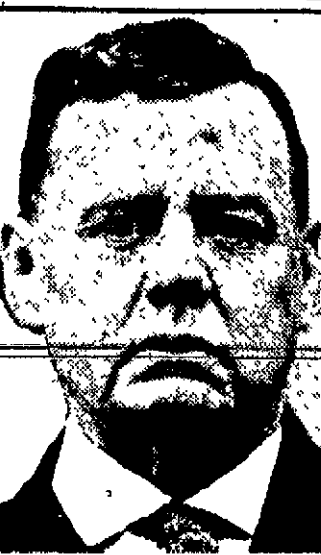

The supreme court ruling is regarded as highly important, and it is expected to decide the powers of the executive to remove officers appointed for specific terms. It is regarded as especially important because some officers are appointed for terms beyond a change in administration.

INSTITUTION NEEDED

Gives Boy or Girl Required
Training in Applied Sciences,
He Says

President Garland A. Bricker of the Wahpeton School of Science, addressed a letter to every member of the house and senate today, leaving it on the desks.

A fight is being made against the school. The board of administration has recommended that it be discontinued. President Bricker advanced arguments for its continuation, maintaining that it filled a niche in the education of the state which no other institution does.

His letter was in part as follows:

Work Important.
"Yesterday, you listened to the Presidents of the University, of the Agricultural College, and of the Normal School at Valley City, the latter representing all the normal schools of the state. We feel that one of the most important phases of education in the state was not placed before you, namely, vocational and trades education, which is carried on at the State School of Science at Wahpeton. Owing to this oversight, the President of the School takes this method and opportunity of placing before you for your consideration a few matters that are very important to North Dakota.

Education Defined.
Vocational and trades education may be defined as that sort of education that "looks up" most closely to the bread-and-butter phase of the life of a young man or woman. In the trades work we teach a young person the short cut to earning a living to the exclusion of every sort of "general" knowledge, while in vocational education we teach the young man or woman the means of earning a livelihood, and at the same time train him to be a good and intelligent citizen. Both lines of work are emphasized on the practical side.

The State School of Science is a Scientific, Vocational, and Trades School of Junior College grade, so defined in the legal enactments by which the School was founded and under which it is operating (see the State Constitution and the School Laws). To these three lines of work we have strictly adhered and have not grave allied to intended to be done by the other higher institutions of the state. If boy or girl of the state wishes to learn a trade or vocation in from one to five years—depending on the nature of the trade or vocation and the degree of thoroughness desired—he can get this training at the state educational institution designated for that sort of training, namely, the State School of Science at Wahpeton.

Scope of Work.
Our scope of work at the present time is confined to the following: Science, Vocational, Agriculture, Home-making, Business and Commerce, Practical Mechanics, including auto, tractor, shop practice, and mechanical work with wood and iron work goes together with the scientific and art subjects, as mathematics, English, and economics—that necessarily go with these vocational and trades courses to make them understandable and capable of being used by the student in the most effective manner.

We do not aim to give courses in professional agriculture, home economics, the liberal arts, or normal training. Practically all of our graduates and students who are not graduates go back to the farm, the home, the village shops and garages, the telegraph office and business offices. However some of the graduates desire to continue their college training, and these may after finishing our Junior College department, without loss of time enter the junior classes of the leading colleges and universities, including our own State University and Agricultural College.

FARMERS FURNISH CARS

Prominent Burleigh County
Leaders to Aid in Organizing Bureau

The membership drive for the Burleigh County Farm Bureau Federation will open Monday in full force with Leon Stanley, a prosperous farmer of Sargent county, in charge under the direction of the campaign committee.

Members of the campaign committee are: J. M. Thompson, Still; John Schneider, Bismarck, and Mrs. T. Ellison, Sterling.

To Give Cars.
Among the prominent farmers of the county who have agreed to furnish cars and assist in the big drive are: W. H. Stark, Isaac Kennelie, W. S. Nichols, Oscar Peterson, K. A. R. Zealand, Mr. Keeler, and Mr. Nelson. Clear Lake, S. E. Clisbie, G. M. Spear, Carl Anderson, David Leathers, Chas. Thompson, J. M. Berthoff, C. W. Allenworth, G. Day, E. A. Whitaker, A. F. Buck, R. W. Felthelm, John Schneider, Mr. Siefert, Mr. Goebel, Irvine Reid, Otto Dorman, P. C. Evans, W. D. Perkins, A. E. Anstrom, M. Bourgeois, A. L. Berthoff, H. S. Higgins, Alfred Christianson, J. H. Small, J. R. Hilsdorf, Arthur Erickson, and J. M. Thompson.

Burnt Creek Meeting.
Kiddier county has just completed a successful drive. Ninety per cent of the farmers of Ward county have enrolled. A big drive is now on in Morton county.

The information campaign which consisted of meetings in every precinct of the county addressed by Dr. Don McMahon of the agricultural extension department and others concluded Tuesday night with a meeting at Phil Harvey's farm on Burnt Creek.

Dr. McMahon addressed the meeting, which was one of the most successful of the series. He emphasized the importance of the committee, of seventeen, and quoted Dr. E. F. Laid, a member, to the effect that much of the 1921 crop would be marketed under its system of collective selling and that in 1922 all of it would.

Takes in Taxation.
He also considered the taxing program of the federation, which he said was:

The true measure of any man's ability to pay taxes must be based upon his actual income. The larger a man's income the higher the rate he should pay.

Every citizen should have some part in the support of the government, hence the necessity of some degree of consumption tax. In levying taxes the aim should be towards the distribution of wealth towards the many and not its concentration in the hands of few.

Making an airplane flight from Paris to Brussels on their way home. Beebe went to Portuguese West Africa as a geologist for an English syndicate exploring oil fields. He took his bride with him. He located petroleum fields which are now being developed.

"Perhaps my most thrilling experience," says Mrs. Beebe, "was meeting African natives who had never seen a white woman. Light hair or blue eyes before, and had no words in their language to describe these."

"They touched me wonderfully," crowded close to look into my eyes and finally offered me bone ornaments for my nose."

In the jungle battle three of Beebe's 125 porters and four natives were killed. His bag of game included 42 hippopotami. His wife spent two nights with him in jungle tree-tops, waiting to shoot Nubian lions.

New York, Feb. 4.—The Sinn Feiners, a local publication, yesterday printed a dispatch purported to have been cabled from Dublin that the British submarine K5, which sunk in British channel three weeks ago, was destroyed by Irish seacraft. It says that it was brought about by an electrically-operated contrivance and that Ireland has struck her first blow against the British navy.

Laughs at Report.
London, Feb. 4.—Inquiry by the admiralty into the loss of the British submarine K5, which sank a fortnight ago, has failed to clear up the mystery of the sinking, as there were no survivors and the record gave no clue.

Reports originating in Dublin which claimed that the submarine had been destroyed by an electrically-operated contrivance never before used were ridiculed today as fantastic.

Mutual Benefit Association Take Steps to Protect Auto
Owners

The sixteenth annual convention of the Mechanics Mutual-Benefit association of North Dakota which closed last night in Bismarck was the most successful gathering yet held by the organization.

Seventy-five members were present and every section of the state was represented. Fred Turner of Dickinson, former member of the house of representatives and popular garage man of the "Queen City," was elected president of the body. Mr. Links of McVieville was selected vice-president and J. H. Burns of Surrey, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

The association decided to organize the garage men of the state to protect automobile owners by insuring a uniform standard of work. The war which took many excellent mechanics out of the state has made it difficult for repair men to get the class of men which were needed but conditions were reported better now and steps will be taken to weed out unsatisfactory workers.

"The organization is in better shape than it has ever been," declares President Turner. "We are going to be more active than ever this year and through our organization we are going to give the automobile owner the best possible service."

CLAIM SOUTH AMERICA WILL

Supply of Wheat on Hand

Buenos Aires, Feb. 4.—Wheat futures have broken severely during the past week. The prices fell the equivalent of 20 cents a bushel. It is asserted that Argentina is beginning its great annual crop movement with surplus estimated at 3,500,000 tons of wheat and that this country is a dominating factor in world grain market. The decision of the Chicago board of trade on Wednesday to discount Argentine prices is characterized as equivalent to an ostrich hiding its head in the sand.

Many held that it was impossible for the board to bar Argentine quotations. They said that if the board refused to deposit them officially, grain firms of America would secure them on their own initiative.

The European buyers at present refuse to enter the market here because of uncertainty as to whether the Argentine government will reimpose export tax on wheat. Such action was intimated recently. Lack of export demand and together with lateness of the crop is said to have caused the break in futures.

Wheat price varies.
Chicago, Feb. 4.—Selling that appeared to be largely on European accounts had a varied result in the wheat market today. Initial quotations which varied from the same figure as yesterday to one and one-half cents higher was followed by a reaction. Higher wheat duties in emergency tariff bill and upturn in export bids helped the market to advance. The market closed one and a quarter cents higher.

CATHRO CLAIMS

TRY TO AMEND RULES

Representative Johnson, Non-partisan, Charges Unfairness by Majority

The house investigation of state industries was impeded today when records of the Bank of North Dakota, asked for by counsel for the committee, were not presented after a recess had been taken to allow time for production of the records.

When the hearing resumed after recess, F. W. Cathro, director general of the Bank of North Dakota, who was asked to produce the record of the redemptions in the Scandinavian-American bank of Fargo and other banks in that city, declared that it might destroy confidence in many banks in the state to make public records of redemptions.

Mr. Cathro was given time in which to take the matter up with the Industrial Commission to find out if he commission would consent to the records being produced.

After Mr. Cathro left the stand, Representative Johnson, of Steele county, Nonpartisan, moved in the committee to amend rule nine to permit witnesses called before the committee to be represented by counsel, charging unfairness to the minority by the majority. The motion was lost by a six to three vote. The committee, which holds morning hearings only adjourned until 9:30 tomorrow morning, when it is expected Mr. Cathro will present the answer of the Industrial Commission.

How tie-up came.
The question which caused the recess of the committee came at 10:15 a. m. Mr. Murphy, counsel for the committee, had been questioning Mr. Cathro relative to the bank loan of $1,000,000 and the method of making redemptions and loans to banks.

Mr. Cathro was asked to bring to the committee the loose-leaf record on the deposits of the Scandinavian-American bank and other banks in Fargo, after Mr. Cathro had enunciated as the policy of the bank in making redemptions to distribute them without favor. Mr. Cathro said that this was what he had tried to caution the committee against—divulging records of relations with banks which might tend to hurt confidence in banks. A recess was taken so that Mr. Cathro might get the record.

During the interim Mr. Cathro conferred with Attorney General Lemke, Secretary of the Industrial Commission H. A. Paddock, Senator Baker and others, remaining in the courtroom where the hearings are held until Chairman Granger called the committee order at 11:45 a. m.

"Have you the record asked for?" Mr. Murphy asked, emerging again the records asked for.

Mr. Cathro asked permission to have correspondence relating to the $1,000,000 loan negotiated last summer, read into the record. This was granted. The question on records was repeated.

Cathro's idea.
"I have used my utmost endeavor to furnish information you desired," said Mr. Cathro, to the committee. "I wish the committee could realize the import of the question you ask. The banks of the state are built on confidence. If you destroy that confidence you would destroy the banks. If you start on one of them you open up the whole realization. And I believe you fail to realize the seriousness of the question. That is about the only thing that should be kept confidential, not so much as the confidential relation between the Bank of North Dakota and these banks but as it affects conditions generally."

"This is a committee of the house of representatives inquiring into affairs of public institutions," said Mr. Murphy. "The only thing asked of you is the one matter regarding the Fargo banks. Will you answer the question?"

To ask Commission.
Mr. Cathro wanted to ask Mr. Lemke if he might answer the question but Mr. Murphy suggested that there were others on the Industrial Commission and that if Mr. Cathro desired to take the matter up with the committee the committee would hear him all the time he desired.

After Mr. Murphy had asked the question from the courthouse at the Bank of North Dakota and Mr. Cathro had answered "four or five blocks" Representative Johnson made his attempt to amend the rules of the committee.

CATHRO-CLAIMS BANK RE-LATION MUST BE SECRET

objected to Johnson, of Steele's, statement that the proceeding was a trial. It was an investigation, he said, and no one who appears before it had been accused of anything.

Mr. Murphy went at length yesterday in his examination of Director-General Cathro into the process by which the state bank purchased its own bonds and then gave them as collateral to a Chicago bank for a loan of $1,000,000.

The examination which refers to this part was as follows:

Q. Now, Mr. Cathro, I will ask you this question. Is it not a fact in the progress of the business of the bank that a daily trial balance is made each day and mimeographed? A. Yes.

Q. That is, as I understand it, at the close of each day's business it is the custom of your bank to make a daily trial balance showing on the one hand all of the resources in considerable detail, and on the other hand all of the liabilities? A. It is.

Q. And including in that all of the interest accrued and earned and all of the interest payable on the part of the bank? A. It is.

Q. And the interest is figured up daily, both coming in and going out? A. It is.

Q. And you make quite a number of these daily trial balances? A. No.

Q. About how many do you make each day, mimeographed copies? A. I mean? A. Not over a couple, two or three probably.

Q. And they are filed there in the bank? A. Only one copy that I know of is being filed.

Q. What is being done with the other copies? A. The only permanent file is the one that is passed to my desk.

Q. Your personal desk? A. Yes.

Q. So that you are then in personal custody of the permanent file of the daily trial balances? A. Yes.

Q. Now I will ask you if you will be kind enough to produce for the examination of this committee the examination of this committee that you will make a note of what I want the daily trial balance of the bank as of Dec. 3, 1920, and the daily trial balance of the bank as of Feb. 1, 1921, and the daily trial balance as of April 1, 1920. Could you do that? Mr. Cathro without too much inconvenience? A. I can do that, what disposition will be made of these? Will they be returned to me?

Q. Certainly they will be returned to you, A. In other words I have got to make copies. I do not want to break up my file.

Mr. Lemke. You understand, with the consent of the Industrial Commission which they undoubtedly will give you.

Q. You make that reservation? A. Yes.

Q. However, you and I can agree on this, that it won't disturb the functions of the bank at all for us to look the trial balances over will it?

A. I feel disposed to offer every courtesy that is possible, without interfering with the activity of the bank.

Q. And it would not impede the operation of the bank if these three trial balances are brought down here for the examination of the committee? A. No.

Mr. Lemke. I might say that you will be shown the same courtesy as in the matter of the Industrial Commission minutes. You can go over and examine it.

Mr. Murphy. Well, I might say that the committee is conducting the examination—and not—council—and they might want them here.

Q. Now, Mr. Cathro, when this bank opened, July 27, 1919, what was its capital? A. It had no capital.

Q. When, if at any time did it acquire any capital? A. What is that?

Q. When did it acquire capital? A. Some two or three weeks later probably later than that date.

Q. So then it operated from the date of its opening on July 28, for a period of two or three weeks without capital? A. Well, I don't think it was quite that long, but a few days at least.

Q. When it did acquire capital, what was that capital? A. Cash.

Q. Cash—money? A. Yes, sir, or its equivalent.

Q. Well, let us distinguish if we can between cash, or its equivalent, was it actual cash money, or was it something representing money? A. It was a check.

Q. From whom? A. From myself as manager of the bank.

Q. To whom? A. The Industrial Commission.

Q. The capital consisted of a check from Mr. F. W. Cathro as director-general of the bank to the Industrial Commission of the state of North Dakota did it? A. Yes.

Q. What was done with that check? A. Well in place of cashing that check as they could have done, they endorsed it and returned it to the bank of North Dakota.

Q. Now that check was drawn upon the funds of what institution? A. Drawn on the Bank of North Dakota.

Q. Drawn by you, as director-general, upon the Bank of North Dakota and made payable to the Industrial Commission? A. Yes.

Q. The Industrial Commission endorsed it and returned it deposited it in the Bank of North Dakota? A. Yes.

Q. Now, upon what fund, if any, was that check drawn in the Bank of North Dakota? A. The same as any check, any investment of any bank for any purpose is drawn, Q. Just on the general fund? A. From the accumulated funds within the bank. The funds have lost their identity when they passed over the bank counter and became merged in the common fund.

Q. In the general fund? A. Yes.

Q. That is true, and this check was drawn on the general fund? A. Yes.

Q. And the funds that were in that general fund were almost entirely monies of the public subdivisions of the state, were they not? A. When the bank received these deposits from the treasurers over the state and we agreed to pay interest, the bank found itself obligated to earn some interest.

Q. No, you don't answer my question. A. I think that will answer it.

Q. My question is, that this check you say was drawn upon the general fund of the bank, which consisted of the deposits from all sources that had come into the bank. That is correct, isn't it? A. No, that is not correct.

Q. That is not correct? Well, upon what fund was it drawn? A. It wasn't drawn on any funds; checks are never drawn that way.

Q. Well, have you got the check? A. I presume it is in the bank; I don't know.

Q. Will you make a note and produce it, if, as I assume, it won't interfere with your operations? A. Checks are never drawn on funds in the bank.

Q. No, I understand that. It was drawn on the bank just like any other check? A. Yes.

Q. And no actual money ever changed hands between the Bank of North Dakota and the Industrial Commission in that transaction? A. Well, that question is misleading.

Q. Well, if it is misleading, you the question and it is misleading in any way, you can qualify it in any way you wish. Does any actual money pass over by means of a debit and credit entry upon the books of the bank and perhaps the books of the commission if they have any? A. Every check that passed from one man to another transfers funds, whether he takes it to the teller's window and draws the cash or whether he deposits it.

Q. We are entirely in accord on that, but what I want to have you admit, if you will, that by this device of drawing the check no actual outside money was brought into the bank, outside of the funds that were already there and deposited by depositors? A. No, there was no additional money brought in.

Q. Now, isn't it a fact that the capital consisted entirely, as a basis for the $2,000,000 bonds, bank notes issued by the state? A. No.

Q. Hadn't you acquired those bonds yet at that time? A. Yes.

Q. Where were they? A. They were in our possession, the possession of the bank.

Q. Did they appear among the assets or liabilities of the bank any where at that time? A. At what time do you refer to?

Q. Well, we are speaking now of the time when you first acquired capital? A. They had appeared on the assets of the bank in the meantime.

Q. That is between the time you opened up and the time you acquired capital? A. The time that we bought the bonds, they appeared among our assets.

Q. Your statement—the first one which I have here—shows purports to carry a statement at the close of business on Sept. 12, in bulletin No. 3, series of 1919. I read that correctly, did I not? A. Yes.

Q. It shows upon its face a capital of $2,000,000, does it not? A. Yes.

Q. Now, will you state to us of what that capital consisted? A. It consisted of money delivered to the Bank of North Dakota by the Industrial Commission.

Q. Actual money? A. Represented by check.

Q. But the bonds were, as a matter of fact, the basis of the capital at all times? A. There were two separate transactions. You can't confuse them. You must not combine them. They were two separate transactions.

Q. Give them to us. A. In the first place, the Bank of North Dakota bought the bonds the same as if they bought a bull receivable, a U. S. treasury certificate of indebtedness, Liberty bonds, or the like.

Q. What with? A. With the same kind of money we buy a roll of a farm loan, a U. S. treasury certificate of indebtedness, a school warrant or any asset of the bank, the same kind of money.

Q. What kind of money? A. Money.

Q. The same money that all banks loan.

Q. What money is it? A. Money that is in the bank and has accumulated there through all the deposits of the combined depositors.

Q. Proceed with the explanation? A. After that transaction was completed, and the bonds bought and paid for from the Industrial Commission, based on the assets of the bank, then subsequent to that time the Industrial Commission delivered to us the check on the Bank of North Dakota, in effect saying here is your capital, credit it up to a capital account.

Q. Delivered the bonds? A. No.

Q. Delivered your checks? A. Yes.

Q. Drawn on what? A. The Bank of North Dakota.

Q. When did the bonds enter the Bank of North Dakota as the property of the bank? A. At the time the bank issues its check to the Industrial Commission and received the resolution of the Industrial Commission that they received our offer to buy the bonds at par.

Q. Can you give us any idea as to when that was? A. Well, it was somewhere about the first or second of August, some early day in August, 1919.

Q. You will pardon if I appear to be confused, because I think your recollection will bear me out that the law under which the bank was organized, as I recollect it, provides that the minute the bonds are delivered they become the capital and are known as the capital of the bank. You are aware of that fact, are you not? A. As I recall it now, I haven't looked for some time. I think there is some provision made for delivering the bonds to the bank.

Q. And to be known and designated as the capital, A. Well, that wasn't the transaction that was followed in this case.

Q. That wasn't followed, did I understand you to say that? A. No.

Q. The bonds thereafter never did represent capital at all? A. They were purchased direct.

Q. They were purchased direct and became the property of the bank? A. Under that provision of law which allows the bank to purchase any bonds with any funds in its possession.

Q. I understand—and the entire capital of $2,000,000 is represented by the check the Industrial Commission gave you instead of the bonds? A. Yes.

Q. The bonds are then carried offsetting this capital, in your resources? A. That is correct.

Q. All of the monies that were in the bank came to it at that time and subsequently in the form of deposits of one kind or another or interest earned? That is true, isn't it? A. Well, that is not exactly correct.

Q. Well, wherein is it incorrect? A. It is very rarely that the deposits in the bank are increased by virtue of actual money. I don't suppose it has happened a dozen times, maybe a hundred times, since we organized that deposits were increased by a deposit of actual money. They are always increased by deposits of checks. In this case, it was by these checks.

Q. I think we are speaking at cross-purposes. I am not speaking of actual money or evidence of money. I want to make this point, that all of the funds in the bank, whether in the form of checks or some other form, all of its funds are derived from the deposits in some form or another? A. Yes.

Q. Now, let me ask you this question, if it is not true that as a result of the transaction between the bank and the Industrial Commission that $2,000,000 of deposits of that bank were transferred into capital, A. No.

Q. They were not? A. No.

Q. Was anything transferred into capital? A. Yes.

Q. What? A. The check of the Industrial Commission given on the Bank of North Dakota.

Q. Credited to capital account? A. Yes.

Q. What was your counter entry there, where did you get the money? What account did you charge the check to? When you credited up capital, where did you put debits entry?

Q. A paid check? A. Yes.

Q. Haven't you any debit entry on the books of the bank, counter entry to that $2,000,000 capital? A. Not except the paid check.

Q. Now we are agreed on that but what I want to get at is this, the check that was drawn for two million dollars which you say when it was delivered to you as director-general was credited to the capital account, must have been debited to some other account, must it not, there must have been something on which that check was drawn. As a matter of fact you just transferred it from deposits and you offset it by putting in two million dollars, as a resource? A. When the transactions for the purchase of bonds were effected two checks were drawn, cashiers' checks so-called, one for $500,000 and one for $1,500,000.

Q. To buy the bonds with? A. The first $500,000 check was sent up to the Industrial Commission by a messenger with the statement that we would take $500,000 of bonds in the Bank of North Dakota. They kept the check and we immediately charged up the bonds as an asset and then credited it on our books as outstanding the cashier's check that was retained for some period of time by the Industrial Commission—it makes no difference how long, it is a separate transaction. After that they returned that check to us and we credited capital and we charged cashier's checks.

Q. And the same transaction took place with reference to the larger transaction, the $1,500,000 deal? A. Yes.

Q. And that is all there was of it? A. Yes.

Q. And at the same time you—? A. We took the $2,000,000 worth of bonds.

Q. And then began part of your resources to offset the $2,000,000 worth of capital? A. Now, that is confusing. The bonds became part of the resources the same as farm loans and loans to bank. They have no connection with capital whatever, they were bought and paid for.

Method of Deposits.

Preceding the questions with regard to the Scandinavian-American bank Mr. Cathro had been asked about the method of making deposits in banks in the state.

When the Bank of North Dakota was organized many banks which had public funds were unable to pay, and the funds were left there, and most of the redeposits are of that nature, Mr. Cathro said.

"You pay 2 percent on the public funds to the treasurers and you charge 3 percent on redeposits, do you not?" the witness was asked.

"Yes."

Answering questions regarding the distribution of money Mr. Cathro said that the bank had "tried to maintain deposits in local banks in proportion to the amount from those counties" and added on questioning that there were portions of the state in need of money more than others and that money had been taken from the eastern to the western part of the state.

"We made no attempt at favoritism," he said.

"Do you know the amount in the Scandinavian-American bank in Fargo on Dec. 3, 1920?" the witness was asked.

Mr. Cathro demurred, saying he did not want to be a party willingly to divulging relations of different banks. Mr. Murphy said there was no desire to injure anyone. Chairman Grandstand said the committee would hold an executive session, and bar the public, if Mr. Cathro would rather give his testimony in that manner.

Policy of Fairness.

Mr. Murphy asked Mr. Cathro if his policy of fairness with regard to redeposits was adopted in all cases. He then asked him if the amount on deposit in the Scandinavian-American bank on Dec. 3 was in the same relation as deposits in other banks when the Bank of North Dakota started—that most of the amount in the bank on Dec. 3 was in the bank at the previous time.

Mr. Cathro said it was.

Then Mr. Murphy asked Mr. Cathro to bring the record—these records being kept in loose-leaf form, and the differences which led to the recess culminated.

When the hearing opened this morning Mr. Murphy again delved into the method of the Bank of North Dakota gaining capital stock.

Question on Entry.

"How do you account for the fact that you didn't have a three-cornered entry, leaving you long, or short $2,000,000?" Mr. Murphy asked.

In the few minutes Mr. Cathro made a demand for counsel, and Mr. Lemke rose and said: "As Attorney-general I am going to see that the state is represented and I will persist in saying what I wish as long as the executive department of the government is discussed."

Mr. Cathro said that an attempt was being made to create the impression that some bookkeeping entry was omitted and he denied this was the case.

The question of the $1,000,000 loan in Chicago brought out a question of law.

Right to Purchase.

Correspondence was read giving the opinion of attorney for the Chicago-house who made the $1,000,000 loan with $1,000,000 of bonds of the bank series as collateral that the bank had no right to pledge the bonds if they had not actually been purchased.

The question was indirectly put as to whether the Bank of North Dakota had really purchased the bonds by its paper transactions with the Industrial Commission in which no actual money was exchanged for the bonds. Mr. Cathro said the bank had actually purchased them.

WAR OF BLUES VS. ANTI-BLUES

Each Is Trying to Wear Other Down in Battle Against Blue Sundays

(N. E. A. Staff Special.) Washington, Feb. 3.—The Blues and the anti-Blues are fighting a war of attrition.

Each is trying to wear down the other in the battle for and against blue Sundays.

The Blues—the Lord's Day Alliance and other reform organizations—deny the desecration of the Sunday. They complain people have drifted away from religion and that in rushing to sporting events, movies and other amusements they have lost sight of their religious obligations.

The anti-Blues contend the Blues simply want to take the "sun" out of Sunday. And they would like to know what the Blues are going to do with the Sundays after they have swung them. They see the country swinging back to these Puritan laws for Sunday observance.

"No one shall travel, cook victuals, make beds, sweep house, cut hair or shave."

"No one shall run, or walk in his garden, or elsewhere, except reverently, to and from meeting."

"Any person who shall be found smoking tobacco going to or coming from meeting, within two miles of the meeting house, shall pay a fine for every such offense."

"No one shall make mince pies, dance, play cards or play any instrument of music except the trumpet, drum or Jew's-harp."

Here are the outstanding strategy and tactics in the Blue Sunday battle to date:

The Blues

The Lord's Day Alliance has referred to "the great majority of senators and representatives in the state and national legislatures" as "weak in morals and incapable in mind" because it has been unable to get restrictive Sabbath legislation under way.

The International Reform Bureau, Inc., of Washington, has declared that movies must not be shown on the Sabbath.

For carving a statue on Sunday, Leo Toschi of Boston was fined $10. The charge was "doing unnecessary work on the Lord's day."

In Zion City, Ill., the premier blue law town of America, Ovsarber Volia announces a ban on photograph jazz records.

The American Association of Fairs and Expositions has declared for a ban on the exhibition of "freaks"—the fat woman, the human giant, the bearded lady, the living skeleton, the missing link and their colleagues.

E. C. Dinwiddie, one of the presidents of the National Reform Association, has declared he would devote half his time to "field work" in connection with helping to bring about "Sinless Sabbaths."

Thirty-six states have anti-cigarette legislation before their legislatures. A bill to close every business establishment and halt all passenger and freight trains on Sunday has been introduced in the Tennessee Senate.

Nineteen men of Jackson, Kan., are threatened with prosecution for sending a carton of cigarettes to President-elect Harding. It's against the law in Kansas to buy or give away cigarettes.

ANTI-BLUES

Governor Edwards has urged the New Jersey Legislature to kill all bills designed as Sunday blue laws.

The Motion Picture Theatrical Association of the World has started a fight to preserve Sunday movies.

Judge Mitchell May of New York declared that Bolshevism and other "vicious" would thrive on the discontent which a stricter Sabbath would stir up.

More than 75,000 former service men, students in Knights of Columbus Schools throughout the country, have taken a stand against the proposed passage and enforcement of Sunday blue laws.

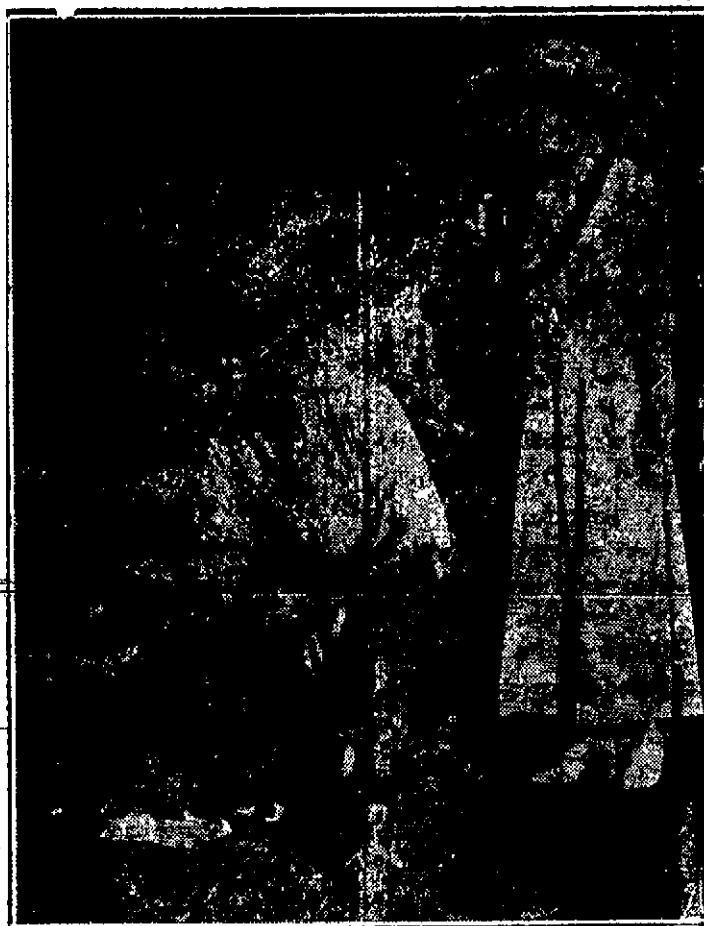

The Jewish Sabbath Alliance of America has resolved to wage a campaign against promoters of Sabbath legislation on the ground that what they propose would be in direct contravention of the constitutional guarantee of religious liberty.

"The present day Sunday blue law campaign has sprung from a puritanical and misguided conception," says Dr. Wm. T. Manning, pastor of Trinity Church in New York. "The Puritans made a serious blunder when they ruled Sunday amusement out."

Senator Paul H. Kimball has announced that he will introduce in the coming Kansas Legislature a bill repealing the anti-cigarette law of Kansas, except as so far as it applies to minors.

Atty. General Armstrong of Maryland has ruled that the blue laws, given neutral application, would make it illegal for churches to maintain paid choirs.

SCENE FROM "THE BIRD OF PARADISE"

Our old friend "The Bird of Paradise," the Tully drama of Hawaiian life, will play its annual engagement at the Auditorium, Feb. 10. Like some of the never-die predecessors, this play with its ukulele music, seems to have a hold upon the public that seems never to lessen. Despite this is the tenth year of the play, its vitality is being proved this season by the large attendance, in the same theatres where it has appeared year after year. Richard Walton Tully who directs the flight of the perennial "Bird of Paradise" announces the same cast as last season headed by the popular actress Florence Rockwell, who will be seen as Luana, around whom the story revolves.

MATINEE OFFERS LEGION SHOW AT 'BARGAIN PRICE'

Owing to the fact that many people will want to see the forthcoming comedy "Are You a Mason" who, because of business and other engagements cannot witness the evening performance, the American Legion under whose auspices the show will be given, have decided to present a bargain matinee.

The afternoon performance will start at 3:30 p. m. Tuesday, Feb. 8th, with popular prices prevailing and no reserved seats being sold for the matinee.

This will afford a splendid opportunity for all who cannot attend the evening production especially the ladies and children to witness the funniest of all comedies at a scale of prices which will allow everyone to attend that desires to do so.

While the matinee is primarily intended for the ladies and children, the more men will be welcome also, and it is hoped that all who cannot attend the evening performance will go to the matinee as it is given for their special benefit.

ORGAN CONCERT WELL RECEIVED

Wednesday saw the inauguration of a series of organ concerts by

Harry LaM. Wagner, master organist at the Eltinge theater. Mr. Wagner's feature number was the "Sextette from Lucia." His superb interpretation and perfect technique displayed the wonderful possibilities of the instrument at the hands of a skilled performer; the effect of flute, oboe, bassoon, French horn, all of those rare and seldom-heard instruments, were brought out in all of their symphonic beauty.

Mr. Wagner's ability to synchronize his musical numbers to screen action was well shown at last night's performance of "The Miracle Man" when he seemed to have at his finger ends a chord or melody depicting every human emotion. This element has characterized all of his work since the opening of his engagement at the Eltinge.

The special concerts will be given every Wednesday and Thursday evening of each week, when Bismarck music-lovers will have an opportunity to hear great masters' interpretations of standard works.

Miss Welch's paper was illustrated by hand painted studies of twenty-two of our wild flowers and one vine, pointing out on the map of the United States the range of our familiar wild flowers. Her Secret of Beauty

A woman universally admired for her beauty once said: "It's health that makes the complexion clear and keeps one looking well and feeling young. Guard your health and you will have less use for cosmetics." Surely advice that any woman might follow.

is a positive boon to women who feel the strain of social or household duties or who are not naturally strong. A beneficial laxative tonic prepared from pure drugs of high therapeutic merit, it improves the appetite, regulates the bowels, aids digestion and thus helps to keep the body in a normal, healthy condition—which means better looks and the cheerful spirits which make a pleasing, popular personality.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

A DIFFICULT TASK

Speaker Twitchell is to be complimented upon the fairness of his rulings and general policy of directing the house organization. His is a difficult task made doubly so by the presence of a deadlock which shows no signs of abatement.

The Cass county representative is a close student of legislation and his advice has always been on the side of economy. There have been tense moments in the house when the temptation to play peanut politics was present, but even his enemies must say that he has risen above partisanship and has sought to be fair to all factions.

Those seeking his ear upon legislative matters have received the most courteous treatment and one of Speaker Twitchell's best points has been his willingness to listen to the other fellow, and to treat every issue placed before him strictly upon its merits.

No one can hope in view of the even division of opinion on state issues that any great remedial measures will pass this session. The best that can be done is to delve thoroughly into the operation of the industrial program and propose measures that will safeguard the best interests of the state.

There will be sharp dissension among the factions as to what is the best remedy for the situation that confronts North Dakota and only time and careful counsel together will evolve the right course which must be worked out in a spirit of fairness to all.

In the formation of such a program, Speaker Twitchell can be depended upon to give the state sound advice acquired in years of legislative experience.

Petrograd is now inhabited by cripples; at least the population has been reduced 71 per cent and it is assumed that everybody who could walk left.

RESTRICTING JURIES

A district judge in Atlantic City, N. J., has issued instructions to the bailiff that women juries shall contain:

"No busy wives of workingmen,
"No mothers of children,
"No admixture of men,
"No immature women who giggle, rouge and powder, but do no think."

Excellent! Especially the last. But—Logically carried out such a rule would disrupt the jury system. Why pick on women? How many men accepted for jury service show any visible signs of thinking? Would it not be wise also to refuse jury service to men who:

Take chances on bootleg whiskey,
Wear lavender or yellow spats,
Attend six-day bicycle races,
Allow barbers to scent their hair,
Believe "woman's place is in the home,"
Spend whole evenings in jazz cabarets,
Think the country is "going to the dogs,"

Are affected by oratory rather than facts,
Weep when a hired lawyer is working up his case,

Serve on juries out of a bawdy curiosity,
Concentrate on ankles rather than on evidence,
Are susceptible to the charms of pretty murderesses,
Are—?—but fill out the list. It is exceedingly long.

TAKE A TIP FROM BEN

Right now our school children are hearing a great deal about Ben Franklin, one of the very best Americans who ever lived. They are being told some things Ben Franklin said. Among them is this gem:

"If you're in debt spend less."
It is all right to teach this to our children, but it isn't right to preach it to them when we grown-ups aren't practicing it.

The nation is in debt—heavily in debt. We face a deficit of two billions of dollars this year. And we are doing this:

"Our naval estimates for 1921 are nearly $700,000,000, as compared with naval appropriations of about $400,000,000 in Great Britain and about $150,000,000 in Japan."

There are three and a half million children starving in Europe. Herbert Hoover says less than the cost of one modern battleship would save the lives of these children.

Who do you think Ben Franklin would talk thrift to if he were here today? To the American school children, or to members of your Congress?

Before the holiday bills are surmounted, along comes the income tax blank.

NO MEDDLING WITH RUSSIA

Another champion of French and English capitalists who invested heavily in Russian roubles before the revolution is heralded in the foreign dispatches. Two others have gone before—and failed.

The United States can have no legitimate interest in attempting to overthrow the government even of a Trotsky and Lenine, either in the interests of French and English investors who have been caught short, or for the glory of a possible genuine Russian minority leader.

Our own slogan, under the Monroe Doctrine, is "America for Americans." With regard to eastern Europe it should be, "Russia for the Russians."

And in the meantime, if it will add to American prosperity and the well-being of American citizens for us to trade with these Bolsheviks that Europe doesn't like, then who is to say us nay? We don't have to fall on their neck ourselves, just to do business with them.

"No meddling with Russia, and no trade boycotts," will be the best American policy. If Wilson doesn't see to it, Harding should.

Deborah means bee in Hebrew and maybe Borah in Marion means something that stings.

MANAGING ONE'S SELF

After having allowed our temper to run riot for 40 years, can it be brought into subjection and made to serve us instead of our serving it? Mary Garden thinks it can be done and has set out to prove it.

It has lately leaked out that the Incomparable Mary is endowed not only with a silver voice, but with a volatile temper as well.

When she became manager of the Chicago Opera Company recently, she sensed danger ahead and had the good sense to recognize her shortcomings and decide that she must first learn to manage herself if she was to manage others.

The bigness of the task she fully realizes, but declares she is a good fighter and will do the thing she has set out to do, emphasizing her determination by throwing out to the skeptical this challenge:

"Watch me win!"
And win she will. She is the winning sort.

While her fight is going on, the rest of us will look on with absorbing interest, many of us wishing in our hearts that we ourselves had the strength of will to go and do likewise.

A couple were married at the base of the Statue of Liberty. Howcum, Liberty?

Many famous men drank liquor but that does not prove that alcohol made them great.

Congressmen evidently think the eighteenth amendment has failed as a discourager of immigration.

Senator Penrose is reported to have become loquacious, thus giving normalcy another jolt in the ribs.

There's something dubious about the grief expressed by a man who spills soup on the Christ-mas necktie his wife gave him.

Dan Cupid is nominated for chairman of the house committee of Ohio's newly-formed Widowers' and Widows' club. Any other nominations.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

ONE MAN'S FAITH IN HIS WORK

There is a business lesson in the appraisers' list of the items in the estate of Frank W. Woolworth.

This great merchant owned about $600,000 in bank stocks and about $150,000 in railroad stocks. The remainder of his business investments, amounting to more than $25,000,000, was in his own enterprises.

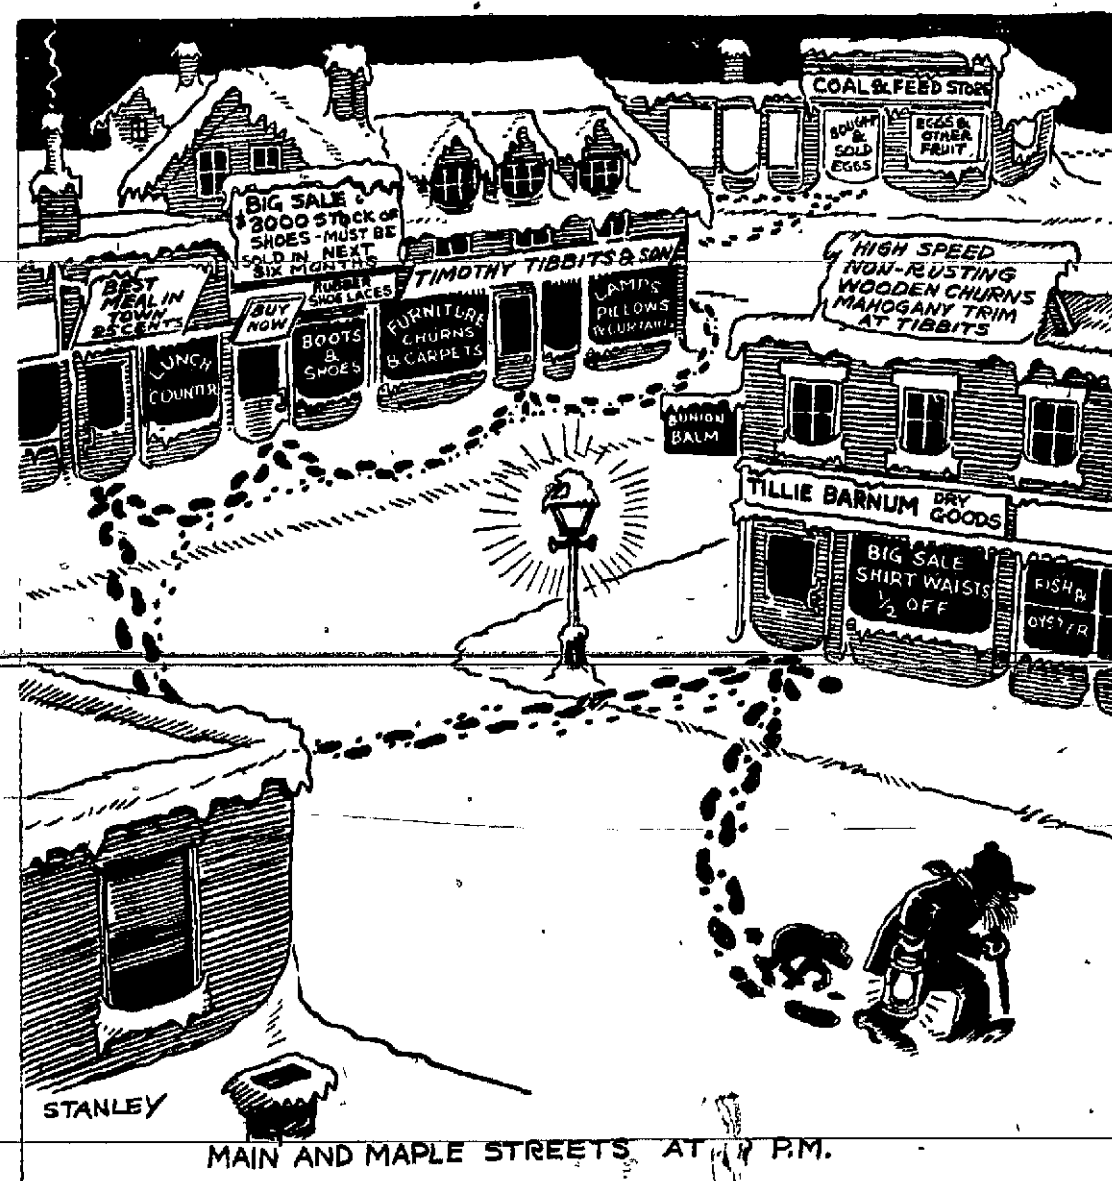

It was not that he lacked confidence in other men's judgment, but that he had a consuming passion for his own business. He built it up from nothing. As it grew he returned the profits to make it grow the more. He had faith in his own business and was content to have practically all his wealth tied up in enterprises which he himself directed.

One thing that this country needs just now is a spread of the Woolworth attitude among business men. Some of them lost a genuine fighting interest in their own enterprises when the war made things too easy for them. Some of them, believing that their plants could run without their constant attention, began to play other men's business games in the stock market.

The business men of the United States have got to mind their own businesses and in the way that Woolworth minded his.—New York Herald.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

The Walrus Helps

palace, was stupid.
Day after day, the twins played checkers, as the Jinn stood by, completely forgetting who they were, where they were, and the errand upon which they had started.

But outside, their friends, the walrus, waited patiently. He had promised to help the children and he had not been idle, although his great, awkward, lumbering form seemed so useless, and his long sharp teeth looked so fierce.

The Jinn, watching carefully to see that Nancy and Nick did not kick off the Slippers of Forgetfulness, did not notice the many dark forms that had gathered in the waters around them. Day by day the great black, bulky shapes became more numerous, crowding more and more closely around the floating ice-palace. Nor did

Suddenly, just as the children were finishing an exciting game, there was a rush and a roar of water into the room where they were sitting. "We're melting!" shrieked the Jinn, and disappeared at once.
The twins were soon floundering in the ocean and their Slippers of Forgetfulness were gone! Then memory returned quickly, and for the first time since their imprisonment they remembered their errand. They realized, too, that the Box of Charms had vanished once more.

Health in Winter

(Questions concerning your health will be answered by experts if sent to Information Editor, United States Public Health Service, Washington D. C.)

Colds.

Q I have a boy three years old who had pneumonia twice last winter. He is subject to colds now and almost as soon as I get him rid of one cold he takes another. Can you advise me what to do to keep him from taking cold? He has enlarged tonsils.

A Let the child have plenty of fresh air. Do not keep him indoors unless the weather is cold or damp or there is a high wind. Have the windows of his bedroom open at night except in very severe weather or during an acute attack.
The temperature of the bedroom at night may be about 50 degrees or 55 degrees.

Cold sponging of his chest, throat and spine when in distress in the morning probably will be beneficial. Let the room be comfortably warm and rub him briskly after the sponging.
It is possible that his enlarged tonsils are accompanied by adenoids and if so you cannot hope for much relief until these are removed.

Severe Coughs.
Q Would you advise me removing tonsils and adenoids of my 6-year-old girl in winter, or is it better to wait for spring? She is subject to colds for the last two years and has attacks of severe coughs—at night can hardly catch her breath. What will you recommend to stop the coughs?

A In many cases it is better to wait for the spring for the removal of adenoids, but if your little girl's breathing is so obstructed by the adenoids that she can scarcely breathe at night, it probably would be well to remove them at once. Take her to your family physician or a nose and whether the operation should be done at once.

Let her have plenty of fresh air and play out of doors except when she has a cold.

Frozen Ears
Q About two or three winters ago I had my ears slightly frozen and ever since then I have been terribly bothered with them. They are red and swollen, and itch a great deal. I can hardly keep from scratching them. What shall I do?

A In cases such as you describe considerable relief is often obtained by painting the affected part with an alcoholic solution of menthol. If this does not suffice, consult your physician.

POETS' CORNER

NEVER SAY FAIL

Should the dark clouds of sorrow,
Beckon you on the tomorrow,
Never let your spirit narrow,
But the field of optimism harrow.

Should they spoil your reputation
Without facts or authorization,
Strike with all your animation:
Don't give way to lamentation,
And never say fail.

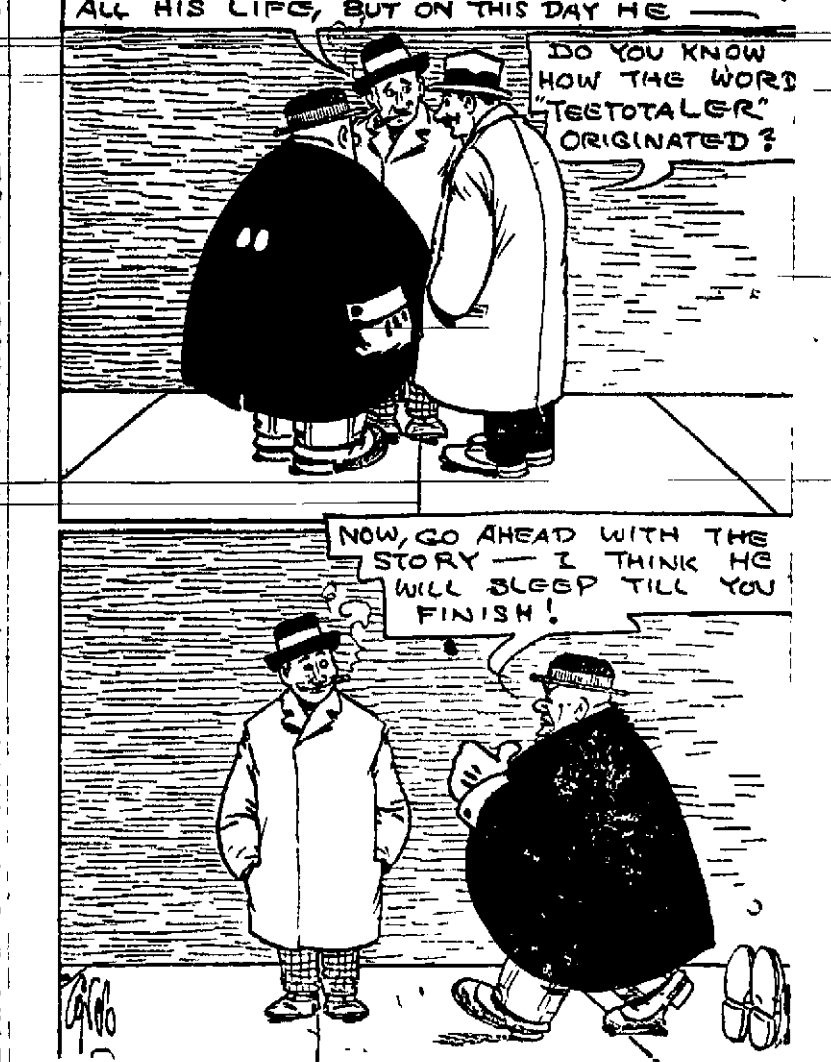

Should your friends be so deceiving;
Let your mind do the leading;
Shun them without a heading,
And seek the pal worth while shielding.
But never say fail.

He never wins who stands acquiescing
At every trifle that's perplexing.
Look in the eye each foe a lurking;
Challenge him without ashirking.
And you will never fail.

Friendship.
Welded together for weal or woe,
Heated in Destiny's fiery flame,
Proven and tried on the forge of life—
These are worthy of Friendship's name.

Sharing each other's joys and cares,
Sailing together life's solemn main,
Knowing and reading each other's
—These are worthy of Friendship's name.

EVERETT TRUE

ALL HIS LIFE, BUT ON THIS DAY HE

MRS. SYLVIA FOSTER, of Buffalo, N. Y., who says she wishes she could go into every home and tell how Tanlac completely restored her health after she had lost all hope of ever being well again.

"They had given up all hope of my ever being well again but thanks to Tanlac I am feeling as well now as I ever felt in my life and I only wish I had time to go to every home and tell every sick person about this grand medicine."

"A year ago last January I had a severe attack of influenza which left me in a terribly weakened condition and my appetite was so poor that I ate little more than enough to keep body and soul together."

"My heart palpitated so dreadfully at times that it seemed like it had stopped altogether and I would think my time had come. I was so weak that I couldn't go up the steps without holding to the railing. It was impossible for me to do any housework. I was so nervous that I couldn't drink my tea or coffee without spilling it."

"My sleep was restless and broken and I would have smothering spells and would just have to get up and go to the window so I could breathe."

"I finally started taking Tanlac on the advice of a friend and before I had finished taking the second bottle my neighbors could tell I was improving right along. Well, it has only taken five bottles to restore my health completely."

"My appetite is just splendid now, my nerves are strong and steady, my housework is a real pleasure and I can sleep like a child at night. In fact, I never felt better in my life than I do now."

The above remarkable statement was made by Mrs. Sylvia Foster, of 206 S. Division St., Buffalo, N. Y., a well-known and highly respected resident of that city.

Tanlac is sold in Bismarck by Jos. Breslow, in Decatur by N. D. and J. H. Barretto, in Wing by H. P. Hoffman, and in Strasburg by Strasburg Drug Co.

PERFECT TRIGGER FINGER

Squeezing at Right Time Is "Tackhole" Lee's Secret

(N. E. A. Staff Special.)
Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 4.—The most perfect trigger finger in the world. It belongs to T. K. Lee of Birmingham. He's the best all-around shot of them all. Squeezing the trigger at the right time is his secret for hitting the bullseye.
Lee shoots one firearm just about as well as another. The rifle, pistol, revolver and shotgun—they're all alike to him. He hits the bullseye so regularly it gets monotonous to the galleries, but not to him. Lee enjoys this kind of monotony.
His Records.
With the small-bore rifle he holds twelve world's records; fourteen with the pistol and revolver.
Here's how he hits 'em:
From 1913 to 1920, inclusive, he scored 17,003 out of 17,010 in indoor rifle shooting; the bullseye being only two-thirds the size of a dime. Firing distance is 75 feet.
Won revolver and pistol championships in 1919.
Set world's record with pistol in indoor shooting in 1918 and equaled it in 1919.
Won pocket revolver championship in 1920.
Some of his scores with the rifle: 1,999 out of a possible 2,000; 4,999 out of 5,000; 2,200 perfect, and 999 out of 1,000.
Wears Cheaters.
Lee wears glasses when he shoots. "I have to wear 'em," he says. "Shooting under artificial lights in indoor tournaments has weakened my eyes; but I seem to be able to locate the old bullseye just the same."
"A lot of shooters think I use cheaters to keep the dust out of my eyes. Many of the big leaguers do; but it is more than dust and smoke that bothers me."
"The right kind of a trigger finger more than offsets weak eyes. The pointing, you know, is largely done by instinct."
He's a fancy shot, too. In exhibition shooting at Birmingham he made the smallest group record with a 22-caliber rifle at 100 yards. He put ten shots so close together that a half-dollar covered them all.
Also he made the smallest official group ever recorded indoors in regular competition at twenty-five yards, putting twenty-five shots inside a quarter of an inch circle.
At traps he hasn't won so many championships; but sixty days after taking up shotgun shooting he tied for second place in the Alabama shoot, breaking 48 out of a possible 100 clay birds. He's the only big league trap-shooter who uses a sight on a shotgun. He had to make his own sight and fit it. Factories don't make 'em for shotguns.
Everything he knows about shooting he found out for himself by practice and observation.
Hits Tackhole.
When he was a kid neighbor boys used to shoot at the head of a tack put in the old barn door or on a tree. Lee went there one better and used the hole made by the point of the tack for a bullseye and hit it. He was nicknamed "Tackhole" Lee after that. The name still sticks.
Lee is now 32. He enters all the big shoots every year.
Maybe "Tackhole" Lee can't shoot! He's the best all-arounder in the world.

The baseball magnates haven't buried the well-known hatchet. The handle merely got too hot for 'em to hold.
Kid Gleason's bidding $80,000 for three star players is no sign the White Sox will be strengthened before the first robin comes. The Kid didn't land 'em.
The Atlanta Crackers drew 17 Saturday games out of the Southern League schedule assignment.
Columbus Senators will break in Ranger, Tex., as a baseball training camp. A few moons ago Ranger was a mere hitching post. Oil was struck and the burg has 10,000 people now.
We'll find out more inside stuff when the "game throwers" come up for trial in February. Ban Johnson has a lot of stuff on his chest yet.
Babe Ruth challenges the guy who broke the "Babe Ruth Broke" yarn to a hostile game of craps.

TAKE A TIP ON CUBAN TRIP.

By A. Tourist.
Havana, Cuba, Feb. 3.—A welcome bid is the American tourist. The rarer he becomes the more rare his welcome.
Cuban hotel proprietors lie in wait for him.
They also lay in their bait for him.
But the tourist is wearing his new deuce gaiters on his wicket.
Tight? Very—except when he's very, very tight.
Speaking of swallows—the tourist comes to Cuba by way of the alimentary canal.
The geography's wrong. Cuba isn't an island—it's an oasis.

Snakes seem to thrive in an oasis. Cuba is full of them—cane cobras and the Garden of Eden variety.
And the woods are full of stumps for political speakers.
In Washington they talk politics. In Cuba they perform politics. Ranting runs to revolution.
A tourist no longer knows what "Havanother" in Havana means. It might mean a mint julep; and again, it might mean a revolution.
Tourists are afraid of revolutions. That's why they stick so close to the bars.
Nobody goes to see Moro castle any more, but the guides are getting rich.
When day breaks, the toney pilgrim calls a guide to help him find his hotel. He tips the guide in proportion to his previous tipping.
Senoritas go to tea dances without a chaperon now. They also want the vote.
Maybe Cuba isn't what it used to be, but Florida is jealous.
"Get off before you get to Havana." That is Florida's battlecry now.
Maybe you can get it in Florida, but you can't rest your foot on the brass rail there.

BUCKS FIGHT FILM LAW

RAY CANNON (N. E. A. Staff Special)

Milwaukee, Feb. 3.—Can fight pictures be shipped from one state to another? The present interstate law says no. Attorney Ray Cannon of this city says yes.
Cannon will test the law. He plans to have the Dempsey-Brennan pictures shipped from New York to Milwaukee. They'll be advertised and shown here. As soon as they're flashed on the screen the proprietor of the theater will be pinched.
Legal Cannon.
Then Cannon will fire his first legal guns.
Here's his argument:
The United States congress has no right to pass laws governing separate states.
Each state has the right to enact laws governing its own morals.
The court exceeded its limit when it ruled against transportation of fight pictures between states.
"It's my intention to use the Dempsey-Brennan fight pictures for a test," says Cannon.
Set's Court Record.
Cannon recently gained wide legal fame by winning 100 consecutive jury cases. Veteran jurists say this is a record.
He was Dempsey's lawyer in the John Reister case. He's just 27, but he's had a lot of legal fights. Battling the fight-picture law will be his toughest.

TURKISH MOSQUE GERMANY RECALLS KAISER AMBITION

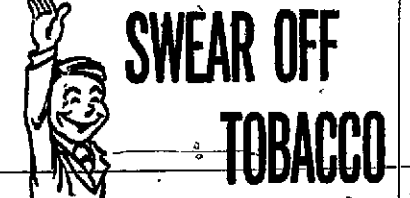

Wuenadort, Germany, Feb. 4.—A reminder of the time when former Emperor William attempted to pose as a leader in the Moslem world remains here in the form of a Mohammedan mosque, which was erected by the Kaiser in the first years of the world war. Eight hundred orthodox adherents of the teachings of the Koran regularly worship in it.
It is the only mosque in Germany and William II built it for the benefit of the Cossack and Kirghis Tartar war prisoners who were captured while serving with the Russians and French. An internment camp surrounds it. Under the law of the Koran the mosque must never be destroyed.
There has been considerable criticism of the former Emperor for having erected it and of the present government for maintaining it. In reply the officials declare it is their duty to give the interned Tartars an opportunity to worship according to the dictates of their faith. They point out that destruction of the mosque would be a serious offense in the eyes of all Mohammedans.

The Modern View-point in the Petroleum Industry

TWENTY years ago, when the famous Spindle Top gusher was brought in, a great volume of petroleum was permitted to spout from the discovery well and flow to waste in the Gulf of Mexico, only the feeblest effort being made to conserve it.

Today, such a practice would be considered so wasteful as to be criminal. The modern viewpoint does not tolerate waste in any phase of the oil industry.

For many years the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been in the lead of those forces which sought conservation, economy and maximum efficiency in the refining of petroleum.

This Company was convinced that refining methods were susceptible of continuous improvement; it believed that with every year of experience, more gasoline might be produced from the crude oil. In furtherance of this idea of continually increasing efficiency, the Company installed the best laboratory equipment obtainable, and employed the most expert petroleum chemists. From these laboratories, has come among other notable improvements, the famous Burton process, to increase the yield of gasoline from the crude, without sacrifice of quality.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is so organized that it is responsive to new ideas, both social and industrial. Its policy is flexible. It does not operate by rule of thumb. The very foundation of its ability to be of such fundamental service to society, lies in its recognition of the value of a close alliance between industry and science. It has developed an organization which fits smoothly into the machinery of social progress.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is guided by men who represent in their points of view the aspirations and determinations of the new world in which we live. These men, Directors of the Company, conceive their task to be that of guiding the industry in accordance with modern ideas of fairness and justice. These men possess both the experience derived from long intimacy with petroleum problems, and the foresight to anticipate the future with its constantly changing industrial values and economic needs.

READERS ENTITLED TO BOTH SIDES OF ANY QUESTION ELSE PROGRESS BY INDEPENDENT THOUGHT IS IMPOSSIBLE

You frequently hear it said in some such way as this:

"What I object to, and where I think too many newspapers avoid their responsibility is printing opinions as news; for then they take away from the public, that must depend upon the newspaper for the major part of its information, the basis for founding that independent opinion without which the best progress is impossible."

A newspaper's first function is to print the news.

Its views are of secondary importance, but news is the chief commodity which the reader buys.

The Tribune's policy is to carry the news to the people every evening without fear or favor in local, state and national affairs.

IT HAS NO POLITICAL AMBITIONS TO SERVE. IT IS THE SERVANT OF NO VESTED INTERESTS.

IT INTENDS TO BE INDEPENDENT IN THE HANDLING OF NEWS, HEWING TO THE LINE AND LETTING THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY MAY.

If you want to buy news rather than propaganda—join the ever increasing circle of Tribune readers.
